Definitions

Basic Resell Rights- the license holder may use all associated promotional material including the main sales page and related graphics to resell the product, generally at a predetermined price. The license holder may not alter the product itself in any way nor can they sell the resell rights. A basic resell rights license comes with many restrictions, but more often than not the restrictions preserve the value and integrity of the product.

Master Resell Rights- the license holder may use all associated promotional material including the main sales page and related graphics to resell the product, generally at a price determined by the reseller. The license holder may not alter the product itself in any way (unless it is rebrandable) but they can sell the resell rights to others who may in turn do the same.

Private Label Rights- the license holder may use all associated promotional material including the main sales page and related graphics to resell the product at the price determined by the reseller. The license holder may alter the product in any way they deem fit as well as resell either basic or master resell rights.

THIS BOOK IS A PRODUCT OF A PRIVATE RESELL RIGHTS LICENSE
