

Ebook Directory
the best source of ebook

The book was found

Cases In Communications Law (General Mass Communication)

Synopsis

This supplement provides landmark cases in communication law to help students better understand practical applications and real-world precedents for the laws they're studying. Most of the cases come from well-known Supreme Court cases with opinions edited for the common students' (as opposed to law students') use.

Book Information

Series: General Mass Communication

Paperback: 304 pages

Publisher: Wadsworth Publishing; 6 edition (January 11, 2010)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0495902977

ISBN-13: 978-0495902973

Product Dimensions: 0.5 x 7.2 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 12.8 ounces

Average Customer Review: 3.6 out of 5 stars 3 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #557,430 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #50 in Books > Law > Intellectual Property > Communications #441 in Books > Business & Money > Industries > Media & Communications #1281 in Books > Textbooks > Communication & Journalism > Communications

Customer Reviews

Preface. 1. Introduction. Why Study Cases? How to Find Cases. Legal Terms. How to Read and Brief Cases. 2. The First Amendment. 3. Risks to Public Safety. 4. Damage to Reputation. 5. Invasion of Privacy. 6. Access to Places and Information. 7. Media and the Justice System. 8. Creative Property. 9. The FCC and Broadcast Licensing. 10. Electronic Media Content. 11. Obscenity and Indecency. 12. Commercial Speech.

John D. Zelezny, an attorney and senior public relations executive, has extensive experience in both academia and the professional world of communications. His varied career began as a small-town newspaper reporter in the 1970s, later encompassed fifteen years as a professor of media law and journalism at three West Coast universities, and eventually led to his employment as a corporate executive and strategic communications adviser to CEOs and boards of directors. He is a member of The State Bar of California and currently serves as senior vice president and chief communications officer for Community Medical Centers in Fresno, California. He is a frequent lecturer on communications law and the author of complex First Amendment problems for law-school advocacy competitions. Mr. Zelezny holds degrees from Humboldt State University and the University of the Pacific, McGeorge School of Law.

The book almost like a new one. I got the book on time, very fast. The book be kept very well. And the price also worthy to buy.

This book is a great example of the passive exploitation of the college textbook market. Publishers have perfected the art of having an expert slap together material that is not elaborated upon enough for advanced students, or which repackages information that can be obtained cheaply (or freely) elsewhere. Then the publisher can charge a grossly inflated price for the book, encourage professors to require it for students, then keep the price high by forcing scarcity in the marketplace for those same students who are forced to buy a copy at any cost. This particular book will only ever be purchased by college students in communications law, most of whom can get 99.9% of the knowledge herein for FREE. Here's the rub - this book is almost entirely made up of reprints of court case documents, which record the rulings and reasonings of judges. But if you are a college student - that is, a member of the only possible market demographic for this book - then your college probably offers free or inexpensive access to database services (such as LexisNexis or WestLaw) that compile this information for scholars. In this book, the "author" Zelezny has supplied a brief introduction that is so brief as to be useless. Then each chapter has an introductory page that features a paragraph on the overall topic, followed by a list of one-sentence descriptions of why each of the selected cases is of interest. Then the court documents for each of the cases are simply reproduced (with some omissions that enhance brevity but damage full learning), and only a handful of those cases are supported by any explanatory introductions or conclusions from Zelezny. In short, Zelezny just barely tells you why he's reprinting information that is free elsewhere. Instead of buying this completely extraneous book, the student would be better served by simply learning which cases are considered classics in communications law, then reading the cases (plus their supporting documents to boot) on the computer network offered by the campus that holds the class that requires this book. Guess which one costs less. [~doomsdayer520~]

My book arrived within five days of placing my order, which was wonderful because I started class the very next day. There was some writing in it as described, but I don't care because it's a book, and as long as I can read the text, that's all that's really important. Anyway, the book was in great condition, it was the right edition, and it's easy to read. Thanks for the great service!

Download to continue reading...

Cases in Communications Law (General Mass Communication) Communications Law: Liberties, Restraints, and the Modern Media (Wadsworth Series in Mass Communication and Journalism) Ace General Chemistry I and II (The EASY Guide to Ace General Chemistry I and II): General Chemistry Study Guide, General Chemistry Review Mass Media Law: Mass Media Law Health Communication: From Theory to Practice (J-B Public Health/Health Services Text) - Key words: health communication, public health, health behavior, behavior change communications Deciding Communication Law: Key Cases in Context (Routledge Communication Series) Mass Communication Law in Georgia, 6th Edition (New Forums State Law) Simulation and Software Radio for Mobile Communications (Artech House Universal Personal Communications) Data and Computer Communications (10th Edition) (William Stallings Books on Computer and Data Communications) How Social Media is Changing Sports: Its a Whole New Ballgame (The Hampton Press Communication Series ( Mass Communication and Journalism)) Communications Law and Policy: Cases and Materials Clinical Anesthesia Procedures of the Massachusetts General Hospital: Department of Anesthesia, Critical Care and Pain Medicine, Massachusetts General ... of the Massachusetts General Hospital) Communication and Communication Disorders: A Clinical Introduction (4th Edition) (Allyn & Bacon Communication Sciences and Disorders) Communication, Media, and Identity: A Christian Theory of Communication (Communication, Culture, and Religion) Press Freedom and Development: A Research Guide and Selected Bibliography (Bibliographies and Indexes in Mass Media and Communications) The Law of Journalism and Mass Communication (Fifth Edition) Mass Communication Law in a Nutshell (Nutshells) Mass Communication Law in a Nutshell, 7th The Law of Journalism and Mass Communication Mass Communication Law in a Nutshell (In a Nutshell (West Publishing))

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help