Construction Of A Wine Cellar

Synopsis

What amateur of great wines has not dreamed of having his own wine cellar to have great wines at hand? To make this dream a reality, several rules must be respected in the realization of this project. But what are the rules that should guide you in building your wine cellar? An effective control of humidity and temperature in your wine cellar. In addition to insulation, temperature control is of paramount importance if you want to prevent the wine from prematurely aging. Therefore, keep the room temperature between 12 and 14 degrees Celsius. Regarding moisture content, there are some disagreements about its ideal level. Usually it is recommended to keep it between 60% and 80%. Note that getting away from this gap may pose serious problems that you will want to avoid at all costs.

Customer Reviews

One of the most worthless books I have seen in the subject. There is a reason that the sample is so short, that is as deep as the book goes. No specifics, no drawings, no reasons, just a bunch of near random opinions with nothing to back them up, nor make them actionable. Please don't waste your money.
